Processo produttivo

Manufacturing process

01 preparazione impasti
raw material preparation
L'utilizzo di materie prime di primaria qualità, permettono di ottenere gli impasti comune-mente usati per la ceramica sanitaria: Vetro China, ottenuta con l'utilizzo di alte percentuali di caolino e quarzo, che la rendono più pura e fine, e Fire Clay, ottenuto utilizzando meno caolino e più materiali inerti.

02 preparazione smalti
preparation of glazes
L'alta qualità degli smalti adoperati è garantita dai continui test a cui vengono sottoposti, per esprimere al meglio la corretta sintonia con il supporto ceramico, l'adeguata corrispondenza della tonalità di colore e le caratteristiche di resistenza che le normative impongono.

03 realizzazione stampi
preparation of molds
GSG Ceramic Design utilizza solo gesso di altissima qualità per la realizzazione dei suoi stampi. Il gesso permette, mediante il principio di assorbimento d'acqua, di creare le condizioni affinché il prodotto, nella sua prima fase di lavorazione, possa essere facilmente isolato.

04 collaggio casting
Gli impasti precedentemente preparati, Vetro China o Fire Clay, vengono iniettati, manualmente o con l'aiuto di appositi macchinari, all'interno degli stampi in gesso mediante i quali, per mezzo del principio di assorbimento d'acqua, si ottiene il prodotto prefinito avente il giusto spessore della materia.

05 rifinitura
finishing
La prima fase di rifinitura è a cura di mastri esperti che, manualmente, rimuovono ogni imperfezione dovuta ad esempio ad impasto eccedente nelle giunture tra i pezzi dello stampo o ad altre cause nel processo di modellazione. Eventuali articoli non idonei agli alti standard GSG saranno rimossi dalla produzione e riutilizzati come materiale da reimasto.

06 essiccazione
drying
Per ridurre in modo importante il processo di asciugatura dei prodotti senza tuttavia comprometterne l'integrità cioè senza provocare fessurazioni, essi vengono trasportati in un essiccatore automatico dove viene forzata in modo controllato una rapida e significativa perdita d'acqua e quindi di peso.

07 collaudo
test-finishing
I prodotti vengono sottoposti ad una ulteriore fase di rifinitura, sempre manuale, ancora più attenta e approfondita, al fine di ottenere prodotti privi di imperfezioni.

08 smaltatura
glazing
La smaltatura, effettuata manualmente da mastri smaltatori, è applicata a tutte le superfici esterne ed interne di ogni articolo, evitando accuratamente che in ogni prodotto rimangano parti non smaltate.

09 cottura
firing
I prodotti smaltati attentamente caricati sulle strutture vengono inviati al forno per la cottura. In GSG il ciclo di cottura ha una durata di ca. 22 ore e segue un preciso programma di fasi tutte determinanti per l'ottenimento di un risultato finale ottimale. I prodotti sono pre-riscaldati, quindi portati lentamente alla temperatura di cottura che in GSG è 1250 ° C., quindi passano alla fase di "permanenza" ed infine al raffreddamento.

10 controllo qualità e stoccaggio quality control and storage
I prodotti selezionati e corrispondenti agli standard GSG vengono stoccati nel nostro magazzino.

11 imballaggio packaging
Ogni articolo viene singolarmente scatolato, posto sul pallet e avvolto da una pellicola protettiva in PVC termo-retraibile.

12 spedizione
shipping
I nostri prodotti sono tutti palletizzati per la loro sicurezza e facilità di trasporto. GSG è in grado di caricare pallet su qualsiasi mezzo di trasporto su gomma con piattaforma e di predisporre container sia di 20' che 40'.

The use of finest quality raw materials, permits us to use fewer inert materials: Vitreous China is made with high percentages of kaolin and quartz, making it purer and finer. Fire Clay is obtained using less kaolin and more inert materials.

The high quality of glazes used is always being tested continually giving a correct harmony for the ceramic production. A guarantee of colour tones and resistance that international standards require.

GSG Ceramic Design uses only the highest quality plaster for the construction of its molds. Plaster allows, by means of the principle of water absorption, to create the conditions so that the product, in its first stage of processing, it can be easily isolated.

The first stage of finishing is curated by expert masters that, manually, remove all imperfections due for example to excess dough in the joints between the pieces of the mold or other causes in the modeling process.

To drastically reduce the drying process of the products without compromising their integrity that is, without causing cracks, they are transported in an automatic dryer where it is forced in a controlled manner a rapid and significant loss of water and therefore weight.

Any item it's subjected to a further step of finishing, always manual, even more careful and thorough, in order to obtain products free of imperfections.

The glazed products carefully loaded on the wagons are sent to the kiln for firing.

In GSG the firing cycle has a duration of about 22 hours, following a precise schedule of all phases determinants for obtaining an optimum end result.

The products are pre-heated,

then slowly brought to the fire-kiln temperature which GSG is 1250 ° C.,

then pass to the phase of "permanence" and finally to the cooling.

Products selected and meeting the GSG standards are stored in our warehouse.

The products are subdivided in series, type and color or decoration.

All warehouse it's controlled on time by our management system in order to respond promptly and correctly to our customers' requests.

Our products are all palletized for their safety and ease of transport.

GSG is able to load pallets on any means of transport on the platform with rubber and to prepare both containers 20' to 40'.
